CASCADIA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Placed number 2 in the nation by Washington Monthly in its ranking of "America's Best Community Colleges," Cascadia emphasizes collaborative learning with a lot of personal attention from instructors and small classes arranged to facilitate working in groups. A dual enrollment program with the University of Washington, Bothell (on the same campus), allows students to take upper level courses at the UW while pursuing an associate degree. This fall the college will begin a new associate and applied science degree called Environmental Technologies and Sustainable Practices. 18345 Campus Way NE, Bothell, 425-352-8000, www.cascadia.ctc.edu.

CITY UNIVERSITY

City University of Seattle is a private nonprofit institution of higher education. Founded in Seattle in 1973 as City College, the school was one of the nation's first to address the needs of the working adult. The university awards degrees and certificates at the undergraduate and graduate levels in dozens of academic fields, and offers a varied and extensive program of continuing education. It also conducts a worldwide distance education program to better serve those who need or prefer to study for their degrees at home. 11900 NE First Street, Bellevue. Toll-free: 888-422-4898 or 425-637-1010, www.cityu.edu.

EURO INSTITUTE OF SKIN CARE

The Euro Institute of Skin Care is committed to providing exceptional holistic esthetics training to students seeking to become licensed estheticians and to licensed estheticians desiring advanced training. Founded 20 years ago by Annemarie Camenzind, a native of Switzerland, it is a structured and disciplined school requiring a high level of commitment and self-responsibility. Traditional European and naturopathic techniques are taught using the finest professional skin care products and equipment. "It's very intensive and body, health and spirit minded," says Euro Institute instructor and marketing director Bethanie Fritz. "We're training students for jobs in the best spas in the world," she says. With six full-time classes and several night courses, each averaging about 20 students, the school strives to accommodate a variety of schedules. Open houses: July 21, Aug. 18 and Sept. 22 from 6:45 - 8:00. 10904 SE 176th Street, Renton, 425-255-8100, www.euroinstitute.com.

The MBA at the University of Washington Bothell

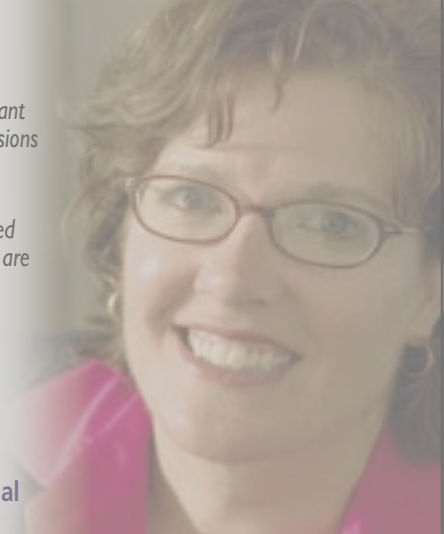

Leadership & Managing in Technology-Oriented Businesses

"The quality of the classroom discussions was a significant component of my total learning experience. The discussions guided by the professors were intellectually stimulating, relevant and often very lively."

"The professional and personal relationships that formed from spending two years together in a cohort structure are a lasting benefit of the MBA."
